Our Grüner Veltliner Loess grows - as its name suggests - on a loess soil at approx. 320m above sea level below our Heurigen restaurant "Weinbeisserei". The vines are already over 50 years old and thus bring a lot of character and taste to the wine. After the manual harvest and spontaneous fermentation, we filled the wine in steel tanks to mature there for a year on the fine lees. The GV Loess was bottled unadorned, unfiltered and only with a minimal addition of sulfur. The result is a spicy, round Natural Veltliner that can be used in many ways as a meal companion.
